

FAMOUS WALKERS.

Men of Genius Who Were Celebrated as Tireless Pedestrians.

There have been some famous pedestrians, with the emphasis on the word famous. Charles Dickens was a great walker. "Twelve, fifteen, even twenty miles a day were none too much for Dickens.  Swinging his blackthorn stick, his little figure sprang forward over the ground, and it took a practiced pair of legs to keep alongside of his voice." He once did "a special feat of turning out of bed at 2 after a hard day, pedestrian and otherwise, and walking thirty miles into the country for breakfast."

Sir Walter Scott "walked twenty or thirty miles without fatigue, notwithstanding his limp." Browning when past seventy could take long walks without fatigue, and Wordsworth at threescore did twenty miles a day. De Quincey considered fourteen miles a day necessary to his health, and Lamb, notwithstanding his "almost immaterial legs," "could walk during all the day." Brahms was a tireless pedestrian, and Beethoven always took his daily walk or "run" of five or more miles in all manner of weathers, while Turner traveled twenty miles a day, sketching as he walked. Herbert Spencer at thirteen, in a fit of homesickness, walked forty-eight miles one day and forty-seven the next, but was probably injured in so doing. Tolstoy at fifty-eight walked 180 miles in three days.

Great men are usually of powerful physique, and many of us would suffer if we emulated their walking habits, but they have not all been so vigorous. Immanuel Kant walked for at least an hour every day, but doubtless Bacon or Locke, Chopin or Weber, Spinoza or Calvin, who were none of them in good health, would have found a walk of a mile or two quite sufficient or even too much.—Dr. James Frederick Rogers in St. Nicholas

Daniel O'Connell.

During the school days of an Irish student in France the French revolution endangered his liberty and even his life, and he escaped. He returned to his native land, studied law, was admitted to the bar and found himself in the midst of the rebellion of 1798. But he ranged himself on the side of law and order. He made $290 the first year of his legal life. Soon his yearly income was $45,000. In 1841 he was elected lord mayor of Dublin. In 1844 he was put in jail. In 1875 he died. These are events in the life of Daniel O'Connell, the Irish liberator, of whom Gladstone said, "He was the greatest popular leader the world has ever known."

As the Maid Saw It.

"In her book, 'Thirteen Years of a Busy Life,' Mrs. Alec Tweedie tells this story on herself. Before she started on a journey from New York to Mexico she packed away her jewelry, including her ring and watch chain. Her maid was sitting opposite her in the train, and suddenly she noticed they were missing.

"Oh," she exclaimed in a sudden panic, "where are your rings?" "I put them away," Mrs. Tweedie replied. "I never travel off the beaten track wearing jewelry of any kind."

"Oh, dear, what a pity!" commented the maid. "They make you look such a lady!"

Marvelous Measurement.

Much is heard of the wonderful instruments employed by science to record the slightest tilts and pulsations of the crust of the earth, but few have any idea of the uncanny accuracy of those instruments. For instance, one such instrument will render observable a tilt of less than one three-hundredths of a second of an arc. This means that if a plane surface was tipped up only so little that the rise would amount to a single inch in a thousand miles the instrument mentioned would reveal the tilting.

The Wily Professor.

Clerk—See here! You told me if I took your course it wouldn't be long before I was earning $40 a week.

Professor Skinner—Well? Clerk—Well, the most I can get is $20.

Professor—That so? But, honestly, now, don't you feel that you are earning $40? Almost every clerk feels he earns at least twice as much as he gets.—Boston Transcript.

A Cumulative Mistake.

"How in the name of common sense did you come to buy so many eggs when I told you to buy only one dozen?" said a lady to her colored cook.

"Well, missus, you tol' me to git one dozen, but I understood you to say two dozen, so I told de groceryman free dozen, but he misundertook me to say fo' dozen, so he gimme five dozen."—Exchange.

Says Woman's Beauty Depends Upon Health.

Health and Vigor Necessitate Regulations of Organs of Elimination.

Skin foods and face creams and powders cannot make a woman beautiful, because beauty lies deeper than that—it depends on health. In most cases the basis of health and the cause of sickness can be traced to the action of the bowels.

The headache, the lassitude, the sallow skin, and the lusterless eyes are usually caused by constipation. An ideal remedy for women, and one that is especially suited to their delicate organisms, is found in Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, a mild laxative compound, pleasant to the taste and free from opiates and narcotic drugs of every description. Mrs. Gertrude Jordan, 522 North Liberty St., Indianapolis, Ind., says: "It is simply fine; I have never been able to find anything to compare with Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. I started using it for the baby and now it is my family standby in all cases where a laxative is needed."

MRS. GERTRUDE JORDAN.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is sold in drug stores for fifty cents a bottle; a trial bottle can be obtained, free of charge, by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 454 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois.

A Boom in American Bibles.

American publishers of Bibles report an increase of about 50 per cent in business over the best previous year. This does not mean that war has multiplied readers of the imperishable book.

For generations the Bible has been an assured and secure "best seller." Its sales amount to 40,000 copies a day, in the average. In the course of the nineteenth century, 300,000,000 copies, complete and partial, were sold. Among mere novels, a total sale of 25,000 copies in considered very good. It took "Ben Hur" twenty-odd years to get beyond the million mark, and "Uncle Tom's Cabin" appears only to have doubled, in its long career, the mark made by Gen. Wallace's book.

In spite of war, with its disasters, disillusionments and shiftings of whole populations, the Bible retains first place on the selling lists. The "boom" news means only that for the present, publishers in other lands being handicapped by war conditions, American printers and binders reap the commercial advantage of furnishing largely the world's supply of the book.—New York World.

Using the Good Book as their authority, many people predict that the war is ushering in the end of the world. But even that dire possibility fails to ruffle our calm. Since we were not here at the beginning, it will at least be some consolation to have the unique experience of sailing out at the end.

Coughs and Colds are Dangerous.

Few of us realize the danger of coughs and colds. We consider them common and harmless ailments. However statistics tell us that every third person dies of a lung ailment. Dangerous bronchial and lung diseases follow a neglected cold. As your body struggles against cold germs, no better aid can be had than Dr. King's New Discovery. Its merit has been tested by old and young. In use over 45 years. Get a bottle today. Avoid the risk of serious lung ailments. Druggists.

Americans are proverbially courageous, but courage alone will not stop a chunk of lead. We need more stoppers.

Colds Need Attention.

Internal throat and chest troubles produce inflammation, irritation, swelling or soreness and unless checked at once, are likely to lead to serious trouble. Caught in time Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey loosens the phlegm and destroys the germs which have settled in the throat or nose. It is soothing and healing. Pine is antiseptic; honey is soothing—both together possess excellent medicinal qualities for fighting cold germs. Insist on Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey. 25c all druggists.

WIFE MADE REMARKABLE RECOVERY.

TERRIBLE AILMENT OF MRS. D. G. FREE, COLUMBIA, SOON RELIEVED BY WONDERFUL TANLAC.

A home made happy, a life given renewed strength and relief from suffering which had continued six years and had reduced her health to that almost of an invalid—that is the astonishing result Mrs. D. G. Free of Columbia obtained from Tanlac, according to the statement of her husband, who is proprietor of The D. G. Free Furniture Co., 1430 Assembly St.

"I have spent at least $1,000 to secure relief for her, but Tanlac is the only medicine which has given her relief," said Mr. Free. "I sometimes believe Tanlac is the medicine the Lord sent her," added the grateful husband. "I shall always be glad to recommend Tanlac, for it is a wonderful medicine."

"My wife suffered terribly with indigestion, and for six years she was supposed to be threatened with dropsy of the stomach, causing her ever increasing suffering. She had no appetite, and was confined to her bed three-fourth of the time. She employed servants to do her household work. When she began taking Tanlac, Mrs. Free was a physical and nervous wreck, and was steadily becoming worse, despite all medicine science seemed able to do for her. I was spending an average of $50 per month for medical services for her."

"We finally came to the conclusion that her case was beyond relief. I was in a desperate frame of mind. Seeing Tanlac so extensively recommended, we decided to try it, and the immediate result for her was wonderful."

"After she had taken two bottles, the servants were discharged, and Mrs. Free began doing her household work, something she had not done in years. Her appetite is good now, and she eats anything she wants. She is gaining rapidly in weight, and her pallor has been replaced by a rosy color. She bears little resemblance to herself as she was a month ago, and she is in fine spirits."

"It is almost unbelievable that any medicine could have brought such wonderful results, but Tanlac surely has done so in the case of Mrs. Free, and it can not be praised too highly. She is now taking her third bottle."

Tanlac, the premier preparation, is sold at Kingstree Drug Co., Kingstree. Price: $1 per bottle.
